

Comment for discussion

1. Is the Banking Union possible despite the existence of national governments that each face their electorate in their jurisdictions?
2. Where does the UK go?
3. Is the European lesson/experience applicable to Asia, where economies and financial systems seem even more divergent than in Europe? What does “Asia” mean?
4. How far can national identity go beyond existing national borders? Can we dream of “United States of Europe(Asia)”?